at Clouds. Records also show the following to be near the same time. William Billup at Keosauqua, a Dr. Bailey at Vernon, a Dr. Norris at Birmingham, a Dr. Joel Knight at Mt. Sterling and at Cantril. William Drew.

The first court was held at Farmington, beginning April 10, 1837, with Hon. David Irvin on the bench. There was a grand jury but no petit jury. The grand jury found an indictment against one Doose, for exercising the office of Constable within that territory, under the law of Missouri: and in this it is believed we had the first judicial assertion of jurisdiction over a territory afterwards the seat of bloodless "Honey War" in 1838, when trouble arose over the boundary line between Iowa and Missouri, brot on by disoute over a bee tree in the brginning of the controversy, and which brot such feeling into display, that the opposing sides actually took up arms, and only ny the tact of some who were leaders, was actual bloodshed averted.

Isaac Newell, a settler on Indian Creek was the first officer, who as sheriff, first opened our courts and arrested those violating the law. The first lawyer settled at Antonsport- Isaac N. Lewis was the second. A record of the court shows that Samuel McBrice was granted a license to run a ferry across the Des. Moines in 1837, evidently this being the first ferry in the county. The second term of court was also held at Farmington in 1838, after which it was moved to Keosauqua.

On the 9th of January 1840, Gen. E.A.M. Swazey was appointed Brigadier General of the First Brigade, 1st Division of the Territorial Militia. In Utica Prairie, Killebrew and other officers marshalled their forces and held most imposing regimental training. Van Buren has, according to population, furnished full quota of soldiers and noted citizens. In 1868 an elaborate monument was erected in memory of those whose enlistments in the Civil War, carried down to death and crowned their memory with honor. The dedication of the monument was held July 4th and the address delivered by Isaac Peters.

In 1845- 46 there were but three families out of seven hundred people, who were not ill. A bilious and intermittent fever raged and there was a heavy mortality in consequence. This was also the same date the Mormons, who were migrating westwardm went thru the county and soent this unfortunate year leaving a toll of graves in a burial ground near Reed's Creek where they were encamped.

One of the sources of beauty as well as industrial advantages, has been the magnificent forest trees which in earlier days abounded in all parts of the county, and which for varied range, could hardly be surpassed. White maple, buckeye, water birch, hickory, pig-nut, hackberry, black wild cherry, white oak, honey* locust, butternut, white walnut, black walnut, box-elder, button, sycamore, cottonwood, aspen, white ash, burr oak, black-oak, linden, basswood, elm and slippery elm are some of the many species of trees, that gave their strength to building and utilities. These were the monarchs of vegetation, of our past century. That of aeons past, is manifest by the coal beds that underly at least three fourths of the county, varying in thickness from two to five feet.

Workable veins were found early in the vicinity of Iwawille, Douds and Selma, also around Pittsburg and Keosauqua and much mining of coal was carried on northeast and southwest of Farmington. There were also deposits of tin, copper and iron. These mines were some of the oldest in the states. The clay associated with the coal strata has been extensively used. At Vernon there was an industry for the manufacture of stone pottery. This was started as early as 1848 by James Clark who came to this place, and had a log kiln and mud oven. In April 1852 Dixon and Colimbourne came and put up a new shop, and next summer a new oven. This enterprise continued a success until 1868. The capacity of the factory was 240,000 gallon per year. There was a like industry at Bonaparte, started in 1866 by Parker and Danback. This firm continued in business five years, when Mr. Wilson succeeded Mr. Parker; in November 1876 the pottery building was burned at a loss of $1200.00, but was rebuilt at once. It employed 10 hands and made 75,000 gallon pottery per year, after ward adding a new feature, a tile factory with a capacity of 6000 feet of tile per day.

Quarries of the best building stone abound in the bluffs of almost every stream. On Chequest Creek, is a fine grained compact limestone, of a light grey or dove color, and capable of a fine polish, The rock seems well adapted to many purposes for which ornamentat stone is required, and has been called "Chequest marble".

On the prairie good wells of living water were obtained from twenty to thirty feet below the surface: and an artesian well 705 feet deep was bored at Farmington, a full flow of water was the result. Its principal constituent was ferric Subphosphate.

The Des Moines River naturally has played an important part in the history of the county, extending as it does entirely thro the area. In the early days of settlement, when river traffic was important as a means of travel and transport, the ferries that plied across its waters, the ice freshets, the spring floods, fishing and boating all were interwoven in the history of the county. To those interested, we recommend the complete account of steamboating on the Des Moines River, in an article by Tacitus Hussey on the "History of Steamboating on the Des Moines River, from 1837 to 1862" in the ANNALS OF IOWA, Third Series, Vol. LV, pp. 323-380, April 1900. Still in good state of preservation, at Bonaparte is the old lock wall, where boats went around the dam there. At Farmington there was an ice freshet in 1832 when the water stood over the territory where the village later stood. It extended as far north as Bonaparte. In the winter of 1866, again Farmington was bothered by an ice gorge, which commenced at Athens. The Meek and Stoddard flour mill was washed away, as well as a number of frame houses.

A social project, that early promised to be an innovation to the middle west wilderness, was that known as the Kneeland Movement. In January 1834, Abner Kneeland, a former orthodox minister, who had become an unbeliever, established himself at the head of a society in Boston called the "Free Inquirers." The organ of this society was called "The Investigator." In 1837-38 a scheme was set on foot to found a colony at Salubria a mile south of Farmington. A levy of ten dollars was made upon each member of the society to further the plan, and among the first commissioners sent out was Abner Kneeland, E. Cutler, S. Smith, James Rice and Mr Tower. But disagreement arose in the colony and the scheme collapsed, and the settlement came to naught. During its existance, however, it had some political influence.

The first newspaper published in Van Buren County was at Keosauqua, and was called "The Iowa Democrat" and "Des Moines Intelligencer". In July 1843, James S. Shepherd started from Springfield Illinois, for the west, and on his way to Iowa, met Cyrus Walker, who suggested Keosauqua as a likely location for a newspaper. It was the intention of Mr. Shepherd to have the paper advocate the Democratic policies of the day, hence it was called "The Democrat Union". Returning to Springfield, he sent the material and printing press west by means of an oxcart and wagon in care of his son Jesse Shepherd and another young man, J.R. Mitchell, who was to receive half profits, to compensate for his labor. Mr. Shepherd directed his son, not to allow anyone the control or dictation over policy of the paper, but as Mr. Mitchell was a Whig and Mr. Shepherd's son a Democrat, they agreed to balance their political opinions and run the paper as a neutral sheet. This the elder Shepherd did not approve, so in the following spring he went to Keosauqua and bought out Mitchell's share for twenty five dollars and a good horse.

In 1845-46 "Des Moines Valley Whig" was published at Keosauqua by H. well and Charles. Vernon also cradled one of the first papers in the county, it was known as the "Democrat Mirror" and the first number was published Dec. 7, 1855.

"The Bonaparte Signal" was the first newspaper published at Bonaparte, A.C. Bailey was editor and owner. The date of the beginning was January 31, 1866, and it was Democratic in principles. "The Democrat" was published at Bonaparte January 19, 1870 by George F. Smith and R.T. Holcomb. "The Birmingham Enterprise" was established October 1869 by W.J. Moore. "The Milton Headlight" came into existence October 1876 with Allen Ditson as publisher. The history of the press in Farmington starts in February 1874 when M.L.M. vers started "The Gazette".

The first seminaries of the county to institute a good system of education, were built by the pioneers, with material of logs with puncheon floors, with seats and desks attached to the walls; Thomas Wilkinson "kempt" the first school at Keosauqua in 1839. The first brick house erected in 1866 at a cost of $18,000.00. Bonaparte's district school was built in 1844, with Thomas Carlton as the first teacher. The Academy was erected in 1865, specifying it as a promoter of literature, science and art. The first school at Centonsport, was taught by John M. Estes, in 1852. Iowa ville had a school taught by a Mr. Clark in 1843. George Rosser taught the first school at Pittsburg in 1842, while Mt. Sterling began to educate its young, in 1841 with Freeman Spaulding teaching in C. Carnes log cabin.

Prior to the building of the public school in 1870 at the town of Farmington, the children were taught in rented houses or in convenient locations.

The earliest record of a public religious gathering, for the purpose of Divine worship, was in August 1837, upon the right bank of the Des Moines River, the first point touched by early settlers; a few hundred yards above the mouth of the Chequest, still stands a huge old tree and was then selected as a "first temple", since known as "The Old Church Tree". There was perhaps a hundred people, including many Indians, who after the settlers all took places, Gathered, standing, around the edges of the crowd with blankets over shoulders and heads bare. This tree has been cared for, to preserve it as long as possible and marked by its present owner, Phil Stong the Van Buren County writer, the land being originally owned by his ancestors. A Mrs Hill a Baptist preacher was the first minister there.

The first church organization was by the Methodists under the leadership of Leonard B. Statler in Keosauqua, but Mr. Haddon built the first church in 1840. The first minister who preached in Farmington was Richard Jones. He had a house on an island where he held forth for a considerable time, and he belonged to the Christian faith. The first denomination to build a church was the Congregational, in 1843, Rev. Harvey Adams serving as pastor from 1843 to 1866. The Baptists were organized in 1841 by Elder Daniel Jewett and who erected the first church 1851-1852, the pastor being Rev Turton.

The following churches were built there as recorded: the Methodist in 1845, German Methodist in 1855, German Lutheran in 1862, Catholic in 1863-64 and the Latter Day Saints in 1875.

The Baptist church in Bonaparte was constituted in October 1842, the first structure about three miles north of the town, while in 1854 after the destruction by fire of the only school in the town, arrangement was made to erect a building that would house both church and school. One story of stone was erected, while in 1856-57 the upper story of brick completed the church. Elder Wm. Snerry was the first pastor after the organization of the church. The Presbyterian church first erected a building in 1871. Bentonport built her first church in 1856. Birmingham had preaching services as early as 1838-39 and Milton in 1840.

At Keosauqua in 1838 there were but three or four women and in 1842 the bachelors numbered 35. Edwin Manning was the first of these to take a wife, However the first marriage license to be recorded, and the first to be celebrated in the county, so far as records show, was that of Norris Steir and Letha M. Reed who were married June 15, 1837, by S Samuel Reed Justice of the Peace. William Brattin and Miss Croxwell were the first couple married in Farmington James A Kean and Elizabeth Williamson were the first couple wed in Bonaparte. The first marriage in Bentonport was Dorothy Smith and Les Prouse. Tom Gardner and Gerilda Moody at Iowaville, Thomas Doud and Mary Sherer at Douds Station.

In conformity with an act of the Territorial Legislature of Iowa, approved Dec. 19, 1838, a meeting of the citizens of Van Buren County was held in the town of Neosauqua, Sept. 11, 1841, for the purpose of organizing a county Agricultural Society. From that time the first plow struck the soil, the citizens of this commonwealth had aimed at a better culture of the land, and a better grade of live stock, than that of the home steads of the east. As an incentive to competition, they organized a County Fair. The first was held in the fall of 1842. Colonel Stiles S. Carpenter delivered the first agricultural address in the county, and probably the first in the State of Iowa.

There was an Historical Society formed in Neosauqua in 1838, which has a successful and protracted life. The Pioneers Association was so called in 1871.

The first mill at Neosauqua was erected by William D. Duncan in the fall of 1838, below the town, in the same year, Duncan Weatherby and King, built a sawmill. Prior to that the people had been obliged to go thirty five miles to get milling done. In 1839, the company in question added a small run of buhrs to their mill and began grinding corn. In 1842 or 43 flour mill was erected by William Hadden, Beesecker and Guire. The building was improved in 1850 and in 1852 and a additional building was constructed at a cost of $5000.00, an improvements embracing a saw mill, carding machine, turning lathe and circular saws.

In 1854 the state began making improvements along the river, a lock and part of a dam was built. In February 1851 the ice gorse knocked the mills from their foundation and they floated down stream, In 1845 there was a steam saw mill put up by Johnson and Brown.

Jackson Myers is said to have started the first flouring mill at Bonaparte, altho Wm. Meek and Sons put up one in 1844, which served untill the fall of 1873, when Robert Meek and Bros. erected a new one at a cost of $14,000.00. It had six runs of buhrs. Meek and Bros. also built a saw mill in 1860. The manufacturing interests of the place, were nearly all centered in the woolen factories, which was one of the most extensive and successful in the state. It was built in the summer of 1853 by William Meek and Sons, who ran it at a paying rate u til 1863 when it was burned. Robert Meek and Bros immediately rebuilt, with machinery propelled by water power. It had in 1873, 1640 spindles in use, six sets of carding machines and two shearing machines.

The first paper mill in the state of Iowa, was Bentonsport, built by Green Bros. in 1852. In 1853 Hitchcock and Noble built a flouring mill and a saw mill on the river banks. An old mill was put up in 1865 by James A. Brown. This was the first linseed oil mill built in southern Iowa. There was a flouring mill at Vernon, that owns quite a scrap of history. The mill was put up by Allender Bros. in 1845. It was used as a grist mill until 1851, when the high water washed a channel through and left the old mill alone on an island.

At Birmingham here was a saw mill and grist mill erected by Gwinn and Bott, in 1850, a cheese factory put in 1871 by C.L. Moss, also a tannary in 1868 which eventually became a pork packing house. With these mills Pittsburg actually built the first in 1836-7 near the mouth of the Chequest Creek.

A noticeable branch of industry in Farmington, established in 1865, was a wagon and carriage factory, owned by Lewis B. Berg. He learned his trade, worked seven years, saving enough to erect a modest shop, which grew until it covered a fourth of a block, using eighteen workmen, and turned out 250 wagons and 40 buggies each year.

Barnaparte and Bentonsport also had wagon factories, and in every town a blacksmith shop, tin shop, and harness shop, and shoe shop. So early in its history the county was self-supporting, in its demand and supply basis.

In 1853, the Des Moines Valley Improvement Colony, passed a resolution, giving all lands which remained after a settlement with the Des Moines Navigation and Railroad Company also all stone, timber and other materials, to Keokuk, Ft. Des Moines and Minnesota Railroad Company for the purpose of constructing a road way from Keokuk up the Des Moines River valley. They made an exception of all the materials which might be necessary to use for the completion of the locks and dams at Croton, Plymouth, Bentonsport and Keosauqua, which the railroad company was to finish. These lands given to this purpose embraced some of the best land, and if the proceeds had been given judiciously, and been properly expended, there could have been made a great water thoroughfare from Steamboats, beside affording a immense waterpower for driving machinery. But incompetency in management, and the intrigues of designing men, the whole of the lands below the Raccoon Fork and a large quantity above, were disposed of, and very little practical good was accomplished toward navigation of the river. As an interesting incident, it may be well to mention that Keosauqua paid in hard cash. $25,000.00 for railroad schemes, the consumation of which never materialized. The building of railroads in the first settlements in the state had just begun, in the extreme east part of the state, but few in the interior knew any thing about this mode of transportation, for travel and commerce, steamboats, were the conception of conveyance.

The Des Moines in high stage of water was thought to be capable of navigation, far into the interior of the state, and those who first settled in the vicinity of this river eagerly looked forward to the day when steamboats would ply up and down in large numbers, and when from long distances from its banks, travel and commerce would seek a way to this channel. In the fall of 1837, the settlers were for the first time gladdened by the sound of the shrill whistle of a steam boat, making its way up the river with supplies for the trading post in Wapello County. In 1839 Edwin Manning brought a stock of merchandise up the river to Keosauqua. He built the first flatboat that passed out the mouth of the Des Moines River, In 1851 he ran a loaded steamer from St. Louis to Des Moines. He was also commissioner of the Des Moines River Improvements from 1855 to 1859.

Aside from the sforesaid dams built by the above mentioned company there was one of private ownership at Bonaparte built in 1837 by Meek & sons, when the town of Bonaparte was commenced and whose initiatory step embraced the building of this dam across the Des Moines River.

These are only a few of the "first things" in the establishment of the county and have been compiled from the "History of Van Buren County" published in 1878 by the Western Historical Company, and the "Annals of Iowa" quarterly by Edgar R. Harlan of the Historical Department of Iowa, by the historian of Van Buren County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution,.
